Rabbi Rosenthal's Message

I love to make scavenger hunts for my kids, while we are on vacation. It's a fun way to engage them with our surroundings, to start up stimulating conversations, and it keeps them interested in something that isn't a video game. This past trip along with lobster pound, dad jokes and a strawberry popover, I included a "sign with a positive message." But really, "positive message" didn't quite sum up what I meant. What I wanted was a message that pushes the world to a better and more loving place. The example I used was, "love is love," which we certainly saw on our trip and which was an easily understood message for both the boys. This is a wonderful statement in support of recognizing that romantic love between any two individuals regardless of gender is equally valid and wonderful.

As I reflect on those simple words in light of our tradition, I am reminded of the rapidly approaching, lesser-known holiday of Tu B'Av. This ancient holiday takes place on the 15th of the Hebrew month Av, as its name indicates. The holiday originates from Mishnah, a post biblical text, which states, "There were no happier days for the people of Israel than the 15th of Av and Yom Kippur since on these days the daughters of Israel go out dressed in white and dance in vineyards... Young man, consider whom you choose (to be your wife)" (Ta'anit, chapter 4)

Certainly, the idea of men choosing a wife while watching them dance dressed in white is an ancient notion that does not meet the standards of equality and partnership that we continue to work for and is a heteronormative ritual. And so, the holiday became almost forgotten, and hardly celebrated except for a prayer service in more traditional settings.

In more recent times, Tu B'Av has been reimagined in Israel as a modern equivalent of Valentine's Day. In this setting it has become a popular day for weddings, renewal of vows, proposing, etc. It has also become a day for romance, dancing and giving flowers.

But I think that it is time for this holiday to evolve once again. A Jewish day of love should really be about the ideal I was helping my kids search for on their scavenger hunt: an opportunity to push the world towards a more loving, caring and compassionate place.

On so many levels it feels as if there is less and less concern for the well-being of those around us, those who are vulnerable, those who look different, pray different (or not at all), or love different from how perhaps we ourselves look, pray and love. My hope is that this month, on August 14th (Erev Tu B'Av) and 15th (Tu B'Av) we might find a way to push the world towards becoming a more tolerant, loving place. That way when future generations go looking for it (scavenger hunt or not), they will see it, and celebrate it.

I hope you all have a wonderful Tu B'Av; sending you all lots of love.

President's Message

Seth Berman

Shalom. I hope that you have had a good beginning to your summer.

As I look back at my first month as President, I have come to realize that while a lot has changed so much has not.

Preparations for the High Holidays are well under way as Rabbi, Cantor, the choir and the ritual committee are all doing their parts in making sure that we have a fulfilling experience. It seems that the tasks that need to be addressed in the past come back in like the tide, even if they change a bit.

While security has always been on our minds, a decade ago I never would have thought that we would need to be responding as we have. Entering our building is far different now and the security committee has worked hard to balance the openness of our congregation with providing us with as safe of an environment as they can.

I hope that those that attended the Brotherhood Breakfast on July 24th learned something from our presenter. Our security committee will continue to work towards streamlining and improving our procedures and will look to bring other speakers to our congregation.

Our renewed Membership Committee along with the ritual committee will be hosting a Bar-B-Que prior to the August 12th family service. Please look inside this issue of the bulletin for more of the details and please remember to RSVP to let us know you will be there. Weather permitting, please join us for some food and a beautiful outdoor service.

Outreach Report

Alice Lambert

This year has been amazing in terms of everyone's generosity when the call has gone out requesting help. We raised almost $4000 for HIAS for Ukrainian refugees. Each time we bring a carload of food to the Sayville Food Pantry they are so thankful as they show us partially empty shelves. The local Soup Kitchen was so appreciative of the food we gave them to prepare for Thanksgiving.

To everyone who helped us help others either locally or globally, we say thank you for your caring and your generosity.

This year continues to be more amazing, (sadly so), in terms of the even greater need of donations. With the cost of living being so high, people are relying on food pantries and food cards to local supermarkets. The refugees fleeing Ukraine are still desperate for help.

Please continue to help us help others. There are barrels in the Temple lobby for non-perishable, nutritious food items...baby food and diapers are especially needed. Gift cards to local supermarkets and pharmacies are easy to donate and easy to use.

If there is anyone in the B'nai Israel family who needs our assistance, we are there for you. Please contact the Clergy, temple office, or myself and we will try to help you.

Thank you for your generosity as you continue to enjoy the remainder of the summer.

Sandy Weber

Ducks Update Good News!

Joel Silverman

As this bulletin goes to press the first half of our Ducks baseball season is already behind us and the commissions and tips earned by our B'nai Israel volunteers has come to more than $12,000. Money in the bank! An additional sizeable check for approximately $2,000 is "in the mail" as of this writing for two games we worked over the 4th of July holiday weekend. Keep in mind that what we earn working the concession stands at Ducks' Stadium is the Temple's largest fund raiser by far. It is virtually our only source of "outside" income and is clear profit; there are no associated expenses.

And none of this could happen without our B'nai Israel volunteers. To date 31 adults and teens have stepped up and pitched in. Some have worked only a single game so far; others have worked many and a hardy few have worked most. Our big-money games are Saturday nights and fewer volunteers have worked mid-week games when needed. The weather has limited crowd size on a couple of occasions and two games, including a Saturday night, have been rained out.

With three Saturday nights remaining on the schedule and a number of mid-week games in August and early September, our opportunities to earn continue. And if you haven't volunteered as yet, we still need you! As paid concession employees return to school beginning in a few weeks the need for additional Temple volunteers increases and with that, a chance to wrap up the season in a big way financially.

If you are able to help and have been putting it off, now is the time. Email ducks@bnai-israel.org for more information and to volunteer. It's not too late to be part of another profitable baseball season.

To protect the health of seniors, AARP suspended all in-person Driver Safety classes at the very beginning of the pandemic. As a result, the three-year cycle of classes hosted by B'nai Israel was cancelled and has not yet resumed. In-person classes were reinstated by AARP in July. If there is a show of interest within the Temple community, we can schedule a six-hour class over two evening sessions in the fall, immediately after the High Holy Days.

Although the AARP class is geared toward senior drivers, any licensed NY State driver is eligible for insurance savings upon completion of the course. The cost would be $25 for AARP members and $30 for others. Please contact the Temple Office to let us know that you might be interested in attending.
