

B'nai Israel Reform Temple Bulletin

Rabbi Rosenthal's Message

As I sit here writing this article, the horrific attacks in Israel are only five days old. I feel so drained, so empty, and so desperately sad for the state of our people and the existence of hate in the world. I find myself doom scrolling through Facebook and looking at pictures of the captives, and of the horrific atrocities being committed to innocent babies, elderly and young people.

I wish I could no longer look, and yet I can't stop. I open my email and receive yet one more email of a tzedakah fund to contribute to, or a vigil or web gathering, from a Jewish organization, and I can no longer process them.

And I know that compared to what our Israeli community is facing – this is nothing.

Tonight, I hugged my kids a little tighter, and I thought how privileged I am to know that they are safe in my arms, and not missing or murdered.

And I know that I am not alone in feeling this way. I have encountered already congregants in tears telling personal stories of relatives or people they know.

And so, I want to pause and take a deep breath.

And if this tragedy is still taking place in November, then I want to say, join me: take a breath, and feel what you need to feel.

We are all human, and it is a tough world to live in right now.

I also want to acknowledge that when I have felt most whole and filled with a sense of comfort came in feeling connected to others.

This past week, I attended the in person gathering that we held to watch the Sing unto God Solidarity broadcast that was filled with soulful music and poetry. The musicians were beautiful, moving, and soulful. But wasn't just the music that provided comfort, it was the spirit of the people present. Being with my community, who understood what I was feeling, and creating a safe place to share was huge. The people present made me feel like we shared a much-needed communal embrace. It might sound cliché, but misery really does love company.

Earlier today, I received an email from one of the members of a local Mosque. And quite honestly, I was really touched, because I know that it had to be a difficult message to send and because it was the first message I received from our interfaith partners.

Shortly thereafter, I received a phone message from another interfaith friend who is a pastor in Sayville, and it filled me with a sense that our people were heard and seen. These outreach efforts reminded me that while the world seems scary and lonely, there are those who see us and care.

These small gestures and moments have sustained me, and I appreciate them immensely.

While they will not solve the crisis, or create sustainable peace, or fund the work on the ground, they are essential.

I hope and pray for what right now feels impossible: that our world will find a way to create a sustainable, safe, dignified, righteous, equitable and peaceful life for all righteous people in the Middle East and beyond, and that the violence will stop.

In the meantime, I will take a breath, and embrace every essential moment of connection I can, while seeking to share them with everyone around me.

President's Message

Seth Berman

One secret that isn't so much a secret is that the deadline for the next month's bulletin is the 10th of the month. There are times that it makes it difficult to write a message that will be timely and accurate.

I am writing this article for the November bulletin on October 8th and the morning before the news broke of awful violence being leveled on the civilians of Israel. The pictures and videos of the violence is horrific. Just the night before we as a congregation sang "Am Yisrael Chai" (The Jewish nation lives) during our Simchat Torah celebration.

I have had a hot and cold relationship with the politics in Israel for as long as I can remember. The acts that we have witnessed go beyond politics or even basic human decency. So what can we do about it from half way across the globe.

It is more important now than ever that we remain proud and vocal people. Times like this will bring out more anti-Israel propaganda and hate. History shows us this. Donate to causes that are helping the Israelis in need. I am sure that by now we have sent out where you can donate to. Remain active in temple and Jewish events in general. Part of what the haters attempt to do is disrupt our lives. The Jewish nation lives and as long as we continue to not bow down to the terrorist attackers we will survive.

I close every article with the simple saying I'Shalom, in peace. I hope that by the time this article reaches you it is out of date and the State of Israel is I'Shalom.

I'Shalom,
Seth C. Berman

Veterans Day 2023

This year B'nai Israel will celebrate Veterans Day at a Shabbat Family Service on Friday evening November 10th. If you are a veteran of any U.S. military service, or the family member of a veteran, please put that date on your calendar. Whether a draftee, volunteer, reservist or National Guard, in peace or in war-time, please join us to commemorate your service and give the Temple community a chance to say, "thank you for your service." If you know veterans who are not Temple members, bring them with you as well.

The Rabbi and Cantor will give a special blessing to veterans who are in-person or on Zoom. Those who are members of a veteran's organization are encouraged to wear related insignia and appropriate articles of uniform or clothing.

As always, families, including kids and friends, are invited to join us that evening at 7:15 PM to honor those who have served our country.

Outreach Committee Report

Alice Lambert

The 2023 annual food drive was a big success!! Thank you to everyone who very generously brought food, personal hygiene items, or diapers when you came to Temple during the holidays. The many bags in the coat room have been donated to the Chestnut Coverdale Sayville Food Pantry, where they were greatly appreciated, because their shelves were largely empty.

Thank you also for the extremely generous donations of food cards. Those will last through a large part of the year and will be given to people as they come to us for help.

Thank you to the crew who helped sort all the food and bring it to the Food Pantry. It was a mammoth undertaking and your help was greatly appreciated. Thank you to Karen Diamond, Alice Lambert, Ellen and Rich Motlin, Joel Silverman, and Sandy Weber.

Please remember that there are always two Outreach bins inside the Temple lobby doors. There is also a new bin in the school lobby. Please make it a habit to bring food anytime you come to the Temple or school. It will be a great mitzvah!

Membership Matters

The Membership Committee has been continuing to identify opportunities for Temple members to get together to pursue common interests. Through small group meetings and activities members can connect, collaborate, and form relationships that strengthen our temple community.

Barbara Abrams has been facilitating a Leisurely Single group since this past spring. Sandy Weber is interested in forming a Couples Connection group and Mark Wittenberg is excited about forming a group for Temple members who are Business Owners and Entrepreneurs.

Please read their information below.

Also, If you have any ideas for an interest group, please let Fran Leiboff know (at membership@bnai-israel.org) and we will work with you to support your ideas.

Couples Connection

Are you looking for opportunities to connect with other couples within our Temple community? I am interested in starting a group so couples can get together and form new relationships (or perhaps reconnect with "old friends"). We can plan lunches or dinners, movies, plays or other outings. I am looking forward to scheduling our first get together in November or December. If you are interested in joining us please email your name and phone number (and whether you prefer a daytime or evening meeting) to Sandy Weber at: sandra.weber654@gmail.com.

I look forward to sharing suggestions with you.

Sandy

Business Owners and Entrepreneurs

We are organizing a special Business Mixer Event that will be tailored specifically for Temple members who own a business or are involved in entrepreneurship. This event will be a wonderful occasion for networking, exchanging ideas, and exploring potential collaborations. Please mark your calendars:

Event: Temple Business Mixer
Date: Monday, December 4, 2023
Time: 7:00-8:30pm
Place: Temple Social Hall with light refreshments

Please rsvp by November 30th by sending an email to: mark@markwittenberg.com

We look forward to your participation and to creating a vibrant network of Temple entrepreneurs. If you have any questions, or want additional information, please contact me at: 516-220-1759. Thank you, Mark

Leisurely Single

Our new group is open to anyone in the temple who is interesting in meeting with other singles to share experiences. We laugh, eat, learn and just enjoy being together. Please feel free to reach out for more information to Barbara Abrams at 631-224-1445 or babrams19@gmail.com.

Our group got together on October 20 to have high tea at the Bayard Cutting Arboretum. There were great sandwiches, desserts and tea. Everyone got to enjoy the art show too. Some even enjoyed the fall decorations and the leaves just beginning to get color around the property.

November 9, 2023

We are having a book discussion on "Woman In The Room" by Marie Benedict. It is available for free from Kindle Unlimited and you can request it from your local library. It's the story of Hedy Lamar, an Austrian Jewish movie star who was much more than an actress. The meeting will take place at Rita Porwick's home.

December 17, 2023

Join us in celebrating Hanukkah at Stephanie's house with latkas and more food from the group. Rather than exchanging gifts we would like to donate to a needy family.
